It is also of great importance to be particular in the arrangement of the sticks. The equal and general circulation of heat throughout the house depends on the manner in which this is done. My barns commonly have three firing tiers above, and three below, the joists. I commence arranging the sticks on the most elevated tier in the roof, to which I give five inches distance; and on each tier, as I descend, I gain one inch, so that on the lowest tier, nearest the fire, the sticks are placed eleven inches apart. This disposition of the sticks, I have ascertained by late experiment, is important. The sticks of tobacco being wider apart next to the fires, gives a freer circulation,...
