

The Skull in the Rock: How a Scientist, a Boy, and Google Earth Opened a New Window on Human Origins

By Marc Aronson

National Geographic Children's Books. Hardcover. Book Condition: New. Hardcover. 64 pages. Dimensions: 10.9in. x 8.7in. x 0.5in. A fascinating account of an Indiana Jones-style fossil hunter and how his discoveries have changed the way we see human evolution. Kirkus Reviews In 2008, Professor Lee Berger--with the help of his curious 9-year-old son--discovered two remarkably well preserved, two-million-year-old fossils of an adult female and young male, known as Australopithecus sediba; a previously unknown species of ape-like creatures that may have been a direct ancestor of modern humans. This discovery of has been hailed as one of the most important archaeological discoveries in history. The fossils reveal what may be one of humankind's oldest ancestors. Berger believes the skeletons they found on the Malapa site in South Africa could be the Rosetta stone that unlocks our understanding of the genus Homo and may just redesign the human family tree. Berger, an Eagle Scout and National Geographic Grantee, is the Reader in Human Evolution and the Public Understanding of Science in the Institute for Human Evolution at the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa. The focus of the book will be on the way in which we can apply new thinking to familiar material and...
